WHAT THE FUTURE

6 X 30 MIN HD AVAILABLE NOW | 4 X 30 MIN HD AVAILABLE OCTOBER 2014

“The future is being written in places that you can’t even imagine by people you would never expect. Tomorrow isn’t being decided in a boardroom but over a bowl of noodles in a busy city or on a dusty road in the middle of Africa. That’s where I’m going to find out what happens next.”

TOMORROW IS ALREADY HERE

What The Future gets its name from the realization that when you really understand the remarkable changes going on in the world right now all you can say is WTF! The show gets its passion and heart from Host Warren Kimmel; an Economist, World Renowned Actor, and new Father who has set about on a mission to determine what tomorrow will really look like. For good or bad, our world is changing and Warren wants to understand what this will all mean.

What The Future is a 10-part series that explores the world of tomorrow from a grass roots, street level perspective. The series follows the adventurous and engaging Warren Kimmel as he travels through Africa and Asia on a search for unique insights into the world of tomorrow.

Shot in HD, What The Future is a gorgeous and sweeping portrayal of the world as it is today and as it will be in the future. From the dusty over crowded cities of Africa to the raw and uncharted savannah, the first 6 eps of What The Future track the path of Africa. The next 4 plot the trajectory of the world as seen through the eyes of people in Asia, the most populous and fastest growing continent. With economics and demographics on its side Asia lays claim to the next part of this century. Warren will see if their optimism will be realized.

WTF is available now as an exclusive TV event in the US.

“I have seen kids in Africa that know more about coding than eggheads in Palo Alto, I’ve visited entrepreneurs in Vietnam that are more cutthroat than any wolf on Wall Street and I’ve seen how philanthropy can do more good than anyone could ever imagine. In short I have seen the future and it’s bright.”
